PREFACE

The progress in any field of knowledge in a country is assessed [illegible] of medical [illegible] the field of [illegible] it is necessary to place at his disposal the whole research work done in India to avoid unnecessary duplication of work and wastage of time and energy. Though quite a number of medical indexes are being published from foreign countries, they index only a few Indian medical periodicals. The need for indexing Indian periodicals in this field was being felt since a long time. To fulfil this need, the Directorate General of Health Services Library decided to index articles from Indian medical periodicals comprehensively. As a result of this, the First Volume of the Index of Indian Medical Periodicals is before you which will appear twice a year. Hope this will fill the gap which was so far being felt due to the absence of such Index.

This is author and subject index, arranged in one alphabet Some cross-references like 'See' and 'See also' have been used to avoid unnecessary duplication and to give wider scope to the subject The abbreviations used for the periodicals have been taken from the 'World Medical Periodicals', 2nd edition published by the World Medical Association.

Hope this will partially fulfil the requirements of research scholars in the field of Medicine.
